September brings exuberant return of students

Football games, class registrations, and reuniting friends awakened the three-month deserted campus in September. Dusted and aired classrooms, a polished gym floor and well-groomed lawns and fields welcomed an energetic student body full of new ideas to be employed by the student government and the many new organizations on campus.

Campus activities revive spirit, spark interests

Excitement spanned the two semesters with activities geared to all interests. Capacity crowds jammed the auditorium for the frequent assemblies sponsored by the Student Association.

Spirit Week preceeded the Homecoming festivities with costumes, caps and a revival of the Sixties. Student participation was noticeably increased in all facets of campus life, bringing a long-awaited sense of unity to the student body.

Grease-painted Kathy Meehan joins Leonard Kalm for an evening of fun at the senior carnival.

October carnival reaps profit, causes excitement

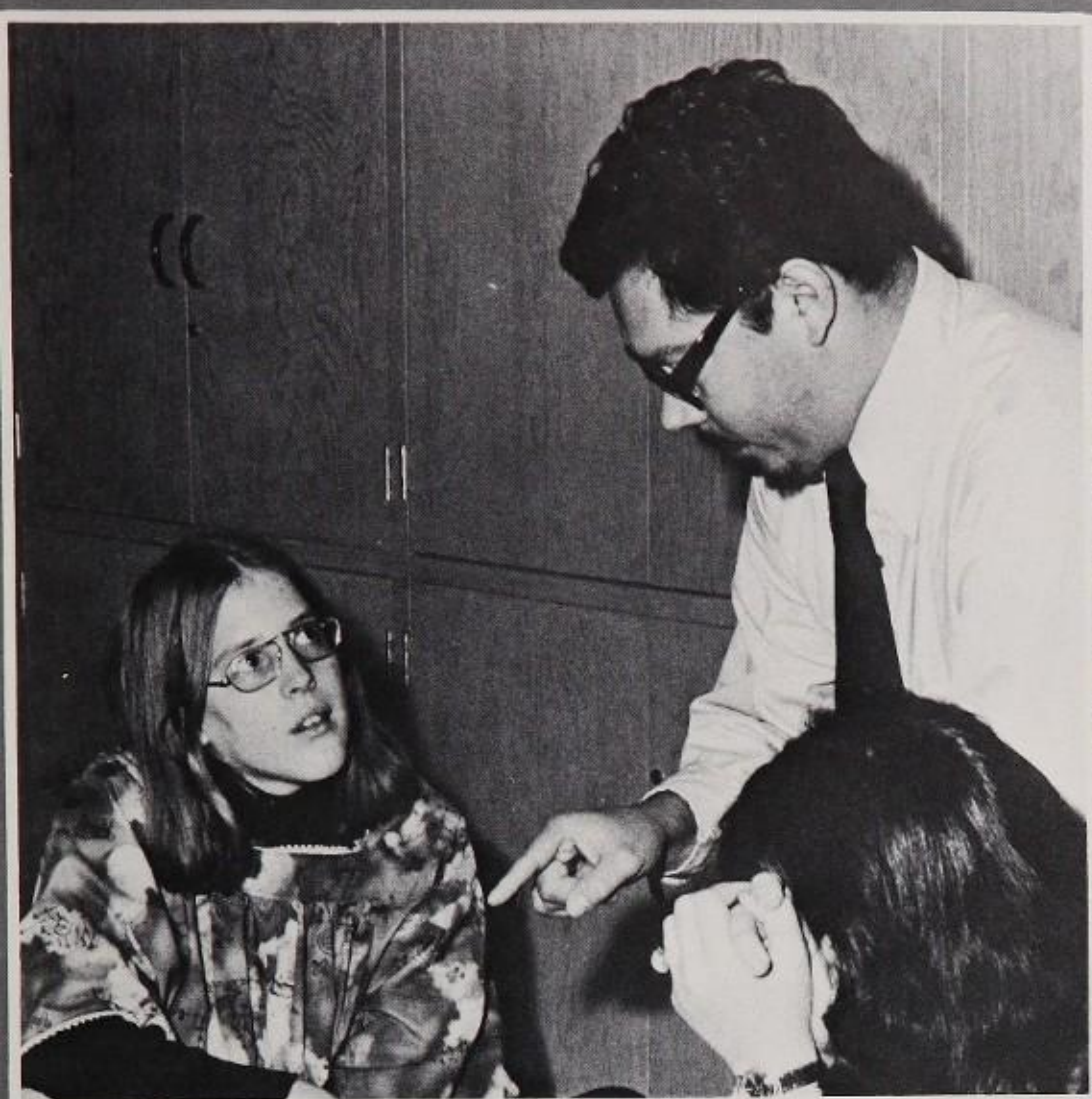

Clashing colors kaleidoscoped dawn to dusk, drawing hundreds to the October carnival. The event, sponsored by the senior class, featured student clowns, the culinary masterpieces of class members, prize drawings, and exciting midway rides.

Brightly lit midway rides attracted many fair-goers.

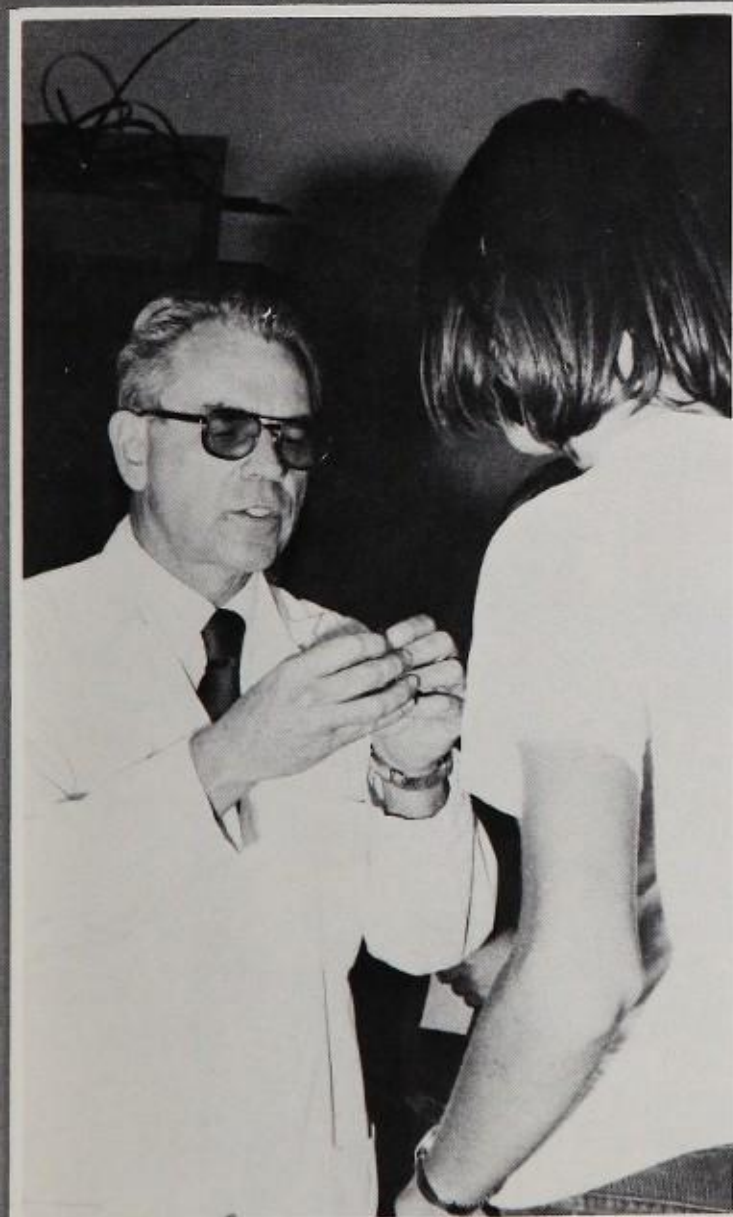

Below: Principal David Swanson readies himself for some dare-devil riding!

Lower teacher-student ratio improves learning

Innovations in learning were a welcome part of the school year. The teaching staffs efficiency was notably improved due to this year's lower teacher to student ratio of 33.2:1. Along with the year old insurance sales class and other vocational training courses, the business department offered a new business machines class.

Right: Able to learn about computers with the help of the new computer class, Steve Warwick and Reuben Hale work to learn all they can absorb.

New adviser organizes events for classes

Conquering the once impossible task of keeping student activities and student government organized-Mr. Kenneth Goepfert became the first full time activities adviser.

Most notably changed was the English department's curriculum. The structure of required classes was loosened to allow students to pursue particular interests. Conventional literature and composition were offered, but indulgences were satisfied by sports story writing, cinematography and public speaking classes.

Courses broaden scholastic scope, domestic ability

Co-education became a by-word in previously all male or all female departments. Together, boys and girls fixed carburetors, burned cupcakes, assembled electronic devices and learned to jitterbug.

Class sizes, in some cases extremely large, seemed secondary to the growing in each facet of learning.

Vice principals have hectic year

Busy as ever, the three vice principals had difficulty finding spare time. Aside from the customary student disciplinary affairs, the vice principals were concerned with counseling students and evaluating teachers along with the supervision of various school activities.

Mr. James Echols joined the administration as vice principal second semester, taking the place of Mr. Clarence Warren who left on a sabbatical leave.

Top: New vice principal Miss Georgette Cary listens attentively to Shari Howington's story.

Far Right: Joining in the exuberant school spirit, Principal David Swanson leads the Skyline Marching Kazoo Band.

Mr. James Echols lists his duties on the first day on campus.

Principal leads evaluation process

One of Principal David Swanson's many duties was the organization of a faculty, student, and parent committee, designed to evaluate educational facilities and to suggest possible improvements, as part of a continuing five-year program. Working with the late Dr. Marcus Foster and five additional Oakland high school principals, Mr. Swanson installed Mr. Kenneth Goepfert as a full-time student activities director. As an added spirit booster, Mr. Swanson enjoyed the sponsorship of the new Skyline Marching Kazoo Band, hopeful that increased participation in student activities would create better relations at Skyline.

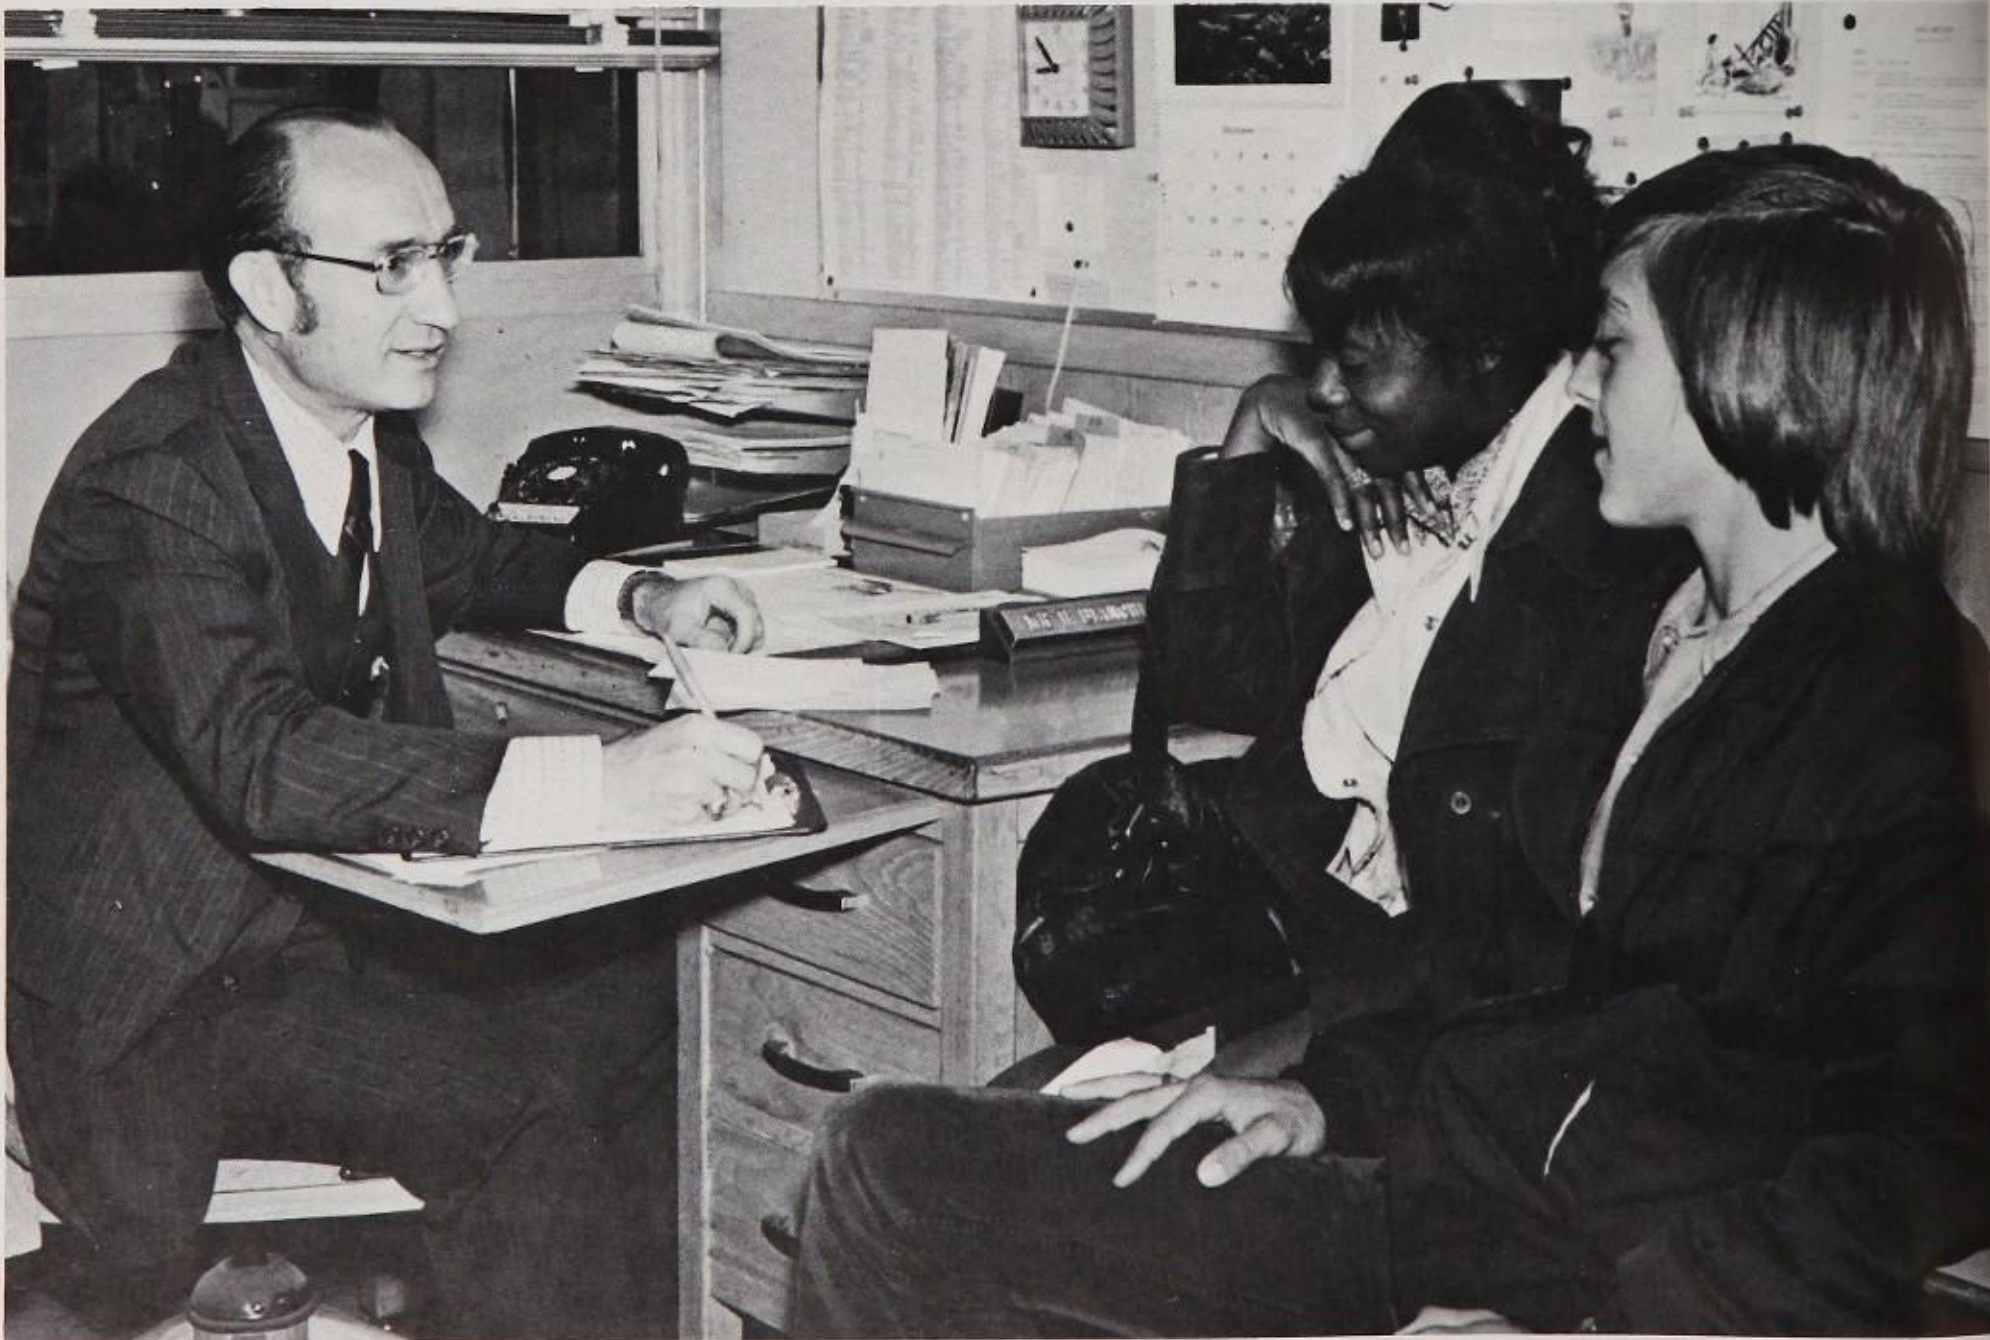

Liaison president of college scholarships, Mrs. Marjorie Beach, traveled across the United States with a national organization for the education of urban students. The ideas Mrs. Beach brought back to discuss were ones tried in other parts of the country.

Head Counselor Mr. Henry Bianchi, along with his regular tasks had many other activities during the year. Calling meetings to keep all his staff aware of events, results, statistics, and general information were just a few of his duties.

Although each counselor had one special area to devote their time, Mr. Bianchi had to keep informed on all events.

Right: Mrs. Marjorie Beach talks with a counselee about college meeting sign-ups.

Extra counselor eases load

To ease the workload of the counseling staff Mr. David Peterson became the seventh full time counselor. Aside from his new work Mr. Peterson coached the cross country and track teams.

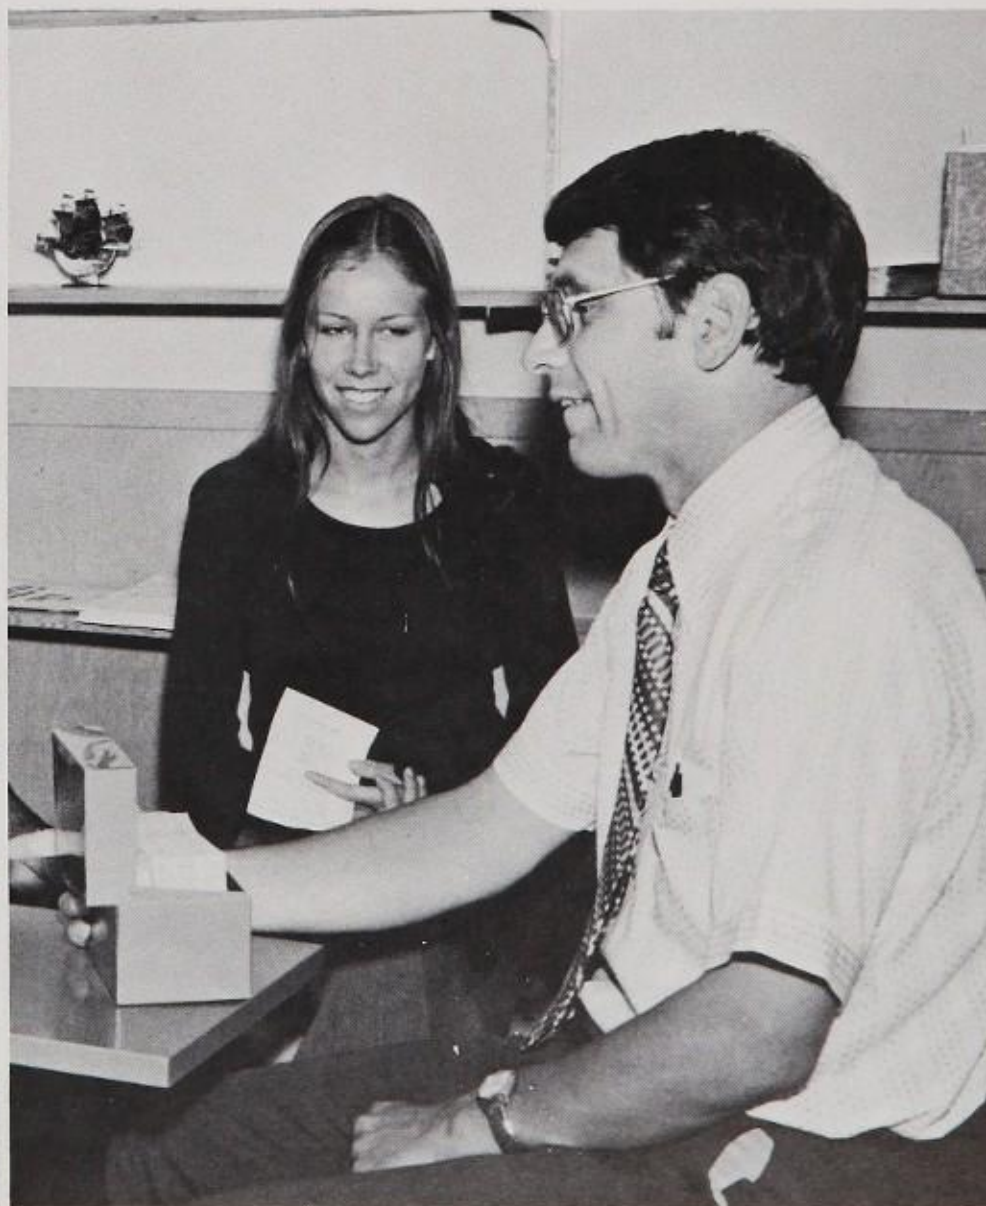

In the absence of Mr. Martin Jemo, Mr. Fritz Sparks kept the office intact.

Mrs. Faye Smith returned to her counselor position as head of testing, after taking over as vice principal last spring.

Counselors create new friendships

Head of the College and Scholarship Club, Mrs. Juanita Thomas sponsored many informative visits to nearby colleges. Speakers from as far away as Hawaii and Maine were scheduled during the year to help students decide where they would further their education after high school.

Remaining in charge of the Inter-Work Experience program, Miss Alta Bassett kept a watchful eye on the "IWE's" throughout the school. Participants learned many skills while giving instructors time to accomplish more professionalized tasks.

Right: In consultation with counselee Suzanne Moles, Mrs. Juanita Thomas explains how to apply for a State Scholarship.

Skills combined with efficiency are demonstrated by staffs

Many skills were needed to keep Skyline running with commendable efficiency. Of the clerks, Mrs. Cleo Metzner, head of the secretaries, took care of the principal's office, while Mrs. Alice Gardner eased the vice principals' daily tasks. Mrs. Mary Fischer handled the recorders' office, while Mrs. Carolyn Adams took charge of the counselors' office. Miss Barbara Tabler, Mrs. Gen Quan, and the newly aquired Mrs. Helen Fernsten kept the attendance office in order. Mrs. Fern Brown stayed as treasurer, and Mrs. Lenore Tietjen alleviated Miss Ann Potter's extra nursing.

Miss Helen Desort helped acquaint three new teachers in Skyline's faculty, Miss Nancy Farnsworth, Mr. Dennis Casey, and Mr. Aaron Parness. Also teaching in the physically handicapped program was Mrs. Mary Thompson.

Human relations department representative, Mrs. Mildred Marcus, worked with Skyline.

ROTC Instructors Sgt Elliot Curits and Sgt Boyd Williams again led the Skyline program.

Unforseen large enrollment in all art classes

Despite the loss of the use of various classrooms in the twenty building for the majority of the school year, a large number of students once again enrolled in art classes.

The department, headed by Mr. Albin Templeman, provided original posters for Skyline students and for assorted junior high schools as well. The posters were displayed during the Thanksgiving and Christmas seasons.

Semester course spices curriculum

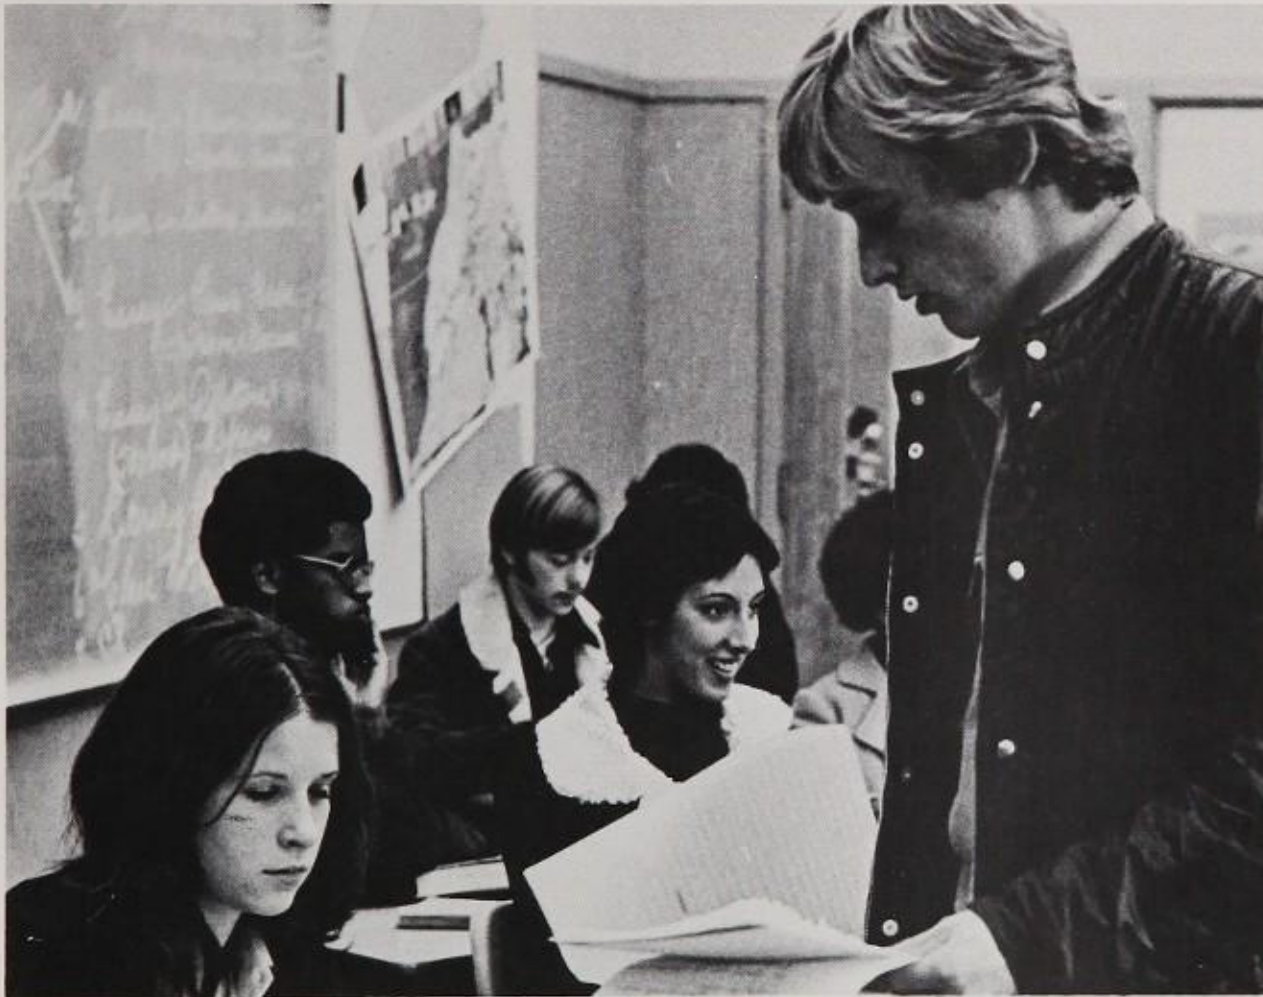

Versatility in selections of classes added interest to students choices in the English department. The modernized curriculum enabled English students to choose such courses as, speed reading, literature of sports, college skills, and cinematography.

In revising the English department courses, almost all classes were made into semester units. Mrs. Faricita Wyatt was head of the department for the second year. Mr. Dennis Mele a member of the English department is not pictured.

Music groups perform excerpts from 'Cabaret'

Under the direction of Joseph Liebling, conductor of the Oakland Symphony Chorus, the Skyline Choir hosted the Region III Choral Festival.

Accompanying the choirs was the Skyline Orchestra directed by Mr. Richard Adams. Performing excerpts from the musical "Cabaret," the vocal ensemble, directed by Mrs. Joanne McKray, Stage Band, and dance group visited various junior high and elementary schools throughout the year.

To climax the music department's full season, the Concerto Concert, presented in the spring, featured outstanding soloists from both instrumental and vocal sections.

Gym classes discover shuffleboard

Girls had many alternatives to choose from including shuffleboard and cross country running. The girls' physical education department, headed by Miss Helen Baker, offered pass-fail courses at midterm to vary the activity schedule. Coach Paul Berger headed the boy's gym department which stressed physical fitness for class participants. Boys did calisthenic drills and ran for circuit training. Weight lifting, basketball, and girl-watching rounded out the program. Even though the entire PE staff was kept busy with extracurricular sports, time was always found to instruct students in basic skills.

Staff produces outstanding book

Many new ideas came from an enlarged staff of fifty-three, twenty of whom were in two periods. Helping to make the Olympian '74 a unique yearbook was the full color cover, a first for the Skyline Olympian. The title page in color and an unusual table of contents were new approaches. More pages for girl's sports and a girls' sports editor combined to make a better sports section.

Journalism staff works diligently to meet deadlines

Working diligently to cover an exciting year was the 1974 Oracle staff. The two journalism classes gathered news for each edition which reflected the interest of many students. Layout designs and better visual coverage were stressed to give the Oracle a more interesting look. By introducing these new ideas the staff worked to retain their hard earned first-place award from the Columbia Scholastic Press Association and the Quill and Scroll international honor award.

Mr. Gary Santos, (student teacher) Wilford Lewis, and Mike Hermiansky. The class produced its own newspaper, called "Skyview."

Honorary society accepts eight new student journalists

Eight new members were accepted in Skyline's chapter of Quill and Scroll. High school journalists must have at least one hundred and fifty printed inches in the school newspaper and a 'B' average. Skyline has been a part of the honorary society for twelve consecutive years.

Oakland press recognizes many student newsmen

Lake Merritt's Sailboat House was the site of the Oakland Press Honor Association dinner. The dinner, March 7, was attended by publication and journalism students from all six Oakland public high schools. Awards of merit were presented to outstanding students for their contributions and achievements to school publications. Cartoonist Morrie Turner, news commentator Isabel Duran, and sports writer Dave Newhouse gave informative talks about their various careers.

Leadership class involves officers in student issues

Mid-year curriculum changes included the addition of two new semester electives. Leadership, an hour designed for persuance of school projects by student body officers, was opened to other students willing to participate in activity organizing. Mr. Kenneth Goepfert advised the course.

Radio programming, taught by Mr. Herb Kennedy, kept the school radio station, KSKY, on the air with original and imaginative scripts.

Dr. Marcus A. Foster 1923-1973

In memoriam

"... Working together, we are limited only by our imaginations ..."

Cited as one of the nation's most progressive educators, Dr. Marcus A. Foster served as superintendent of the Oakland Unified School District for three years.

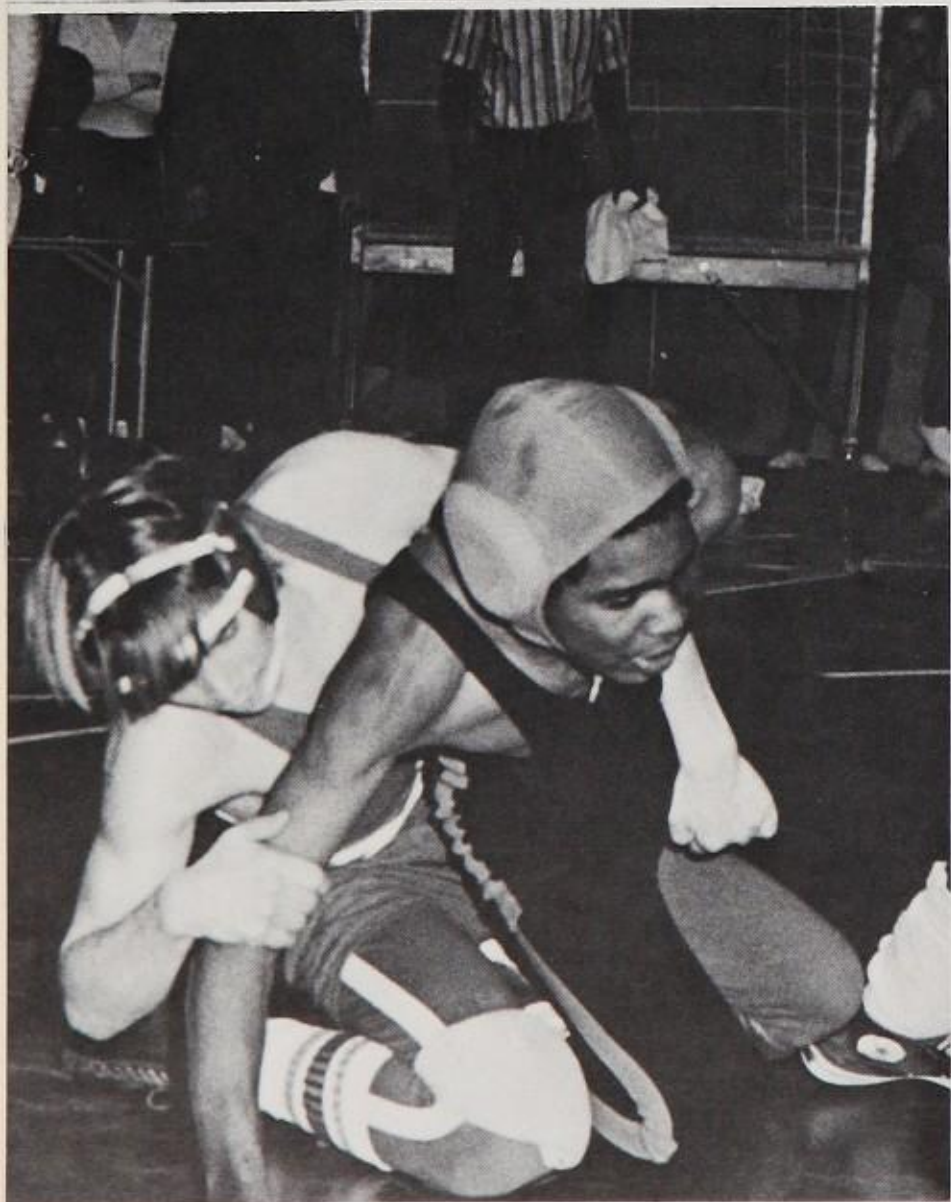

Youngest of five children, Dr. Foster was born March 31, 1923 in Athens, Georgia. Raised and educated in Philadelphia, he did his undergraduate study at Pennsylvania State College, and continued through the University of Pennsylvania for the first of his three doctorate degrees.

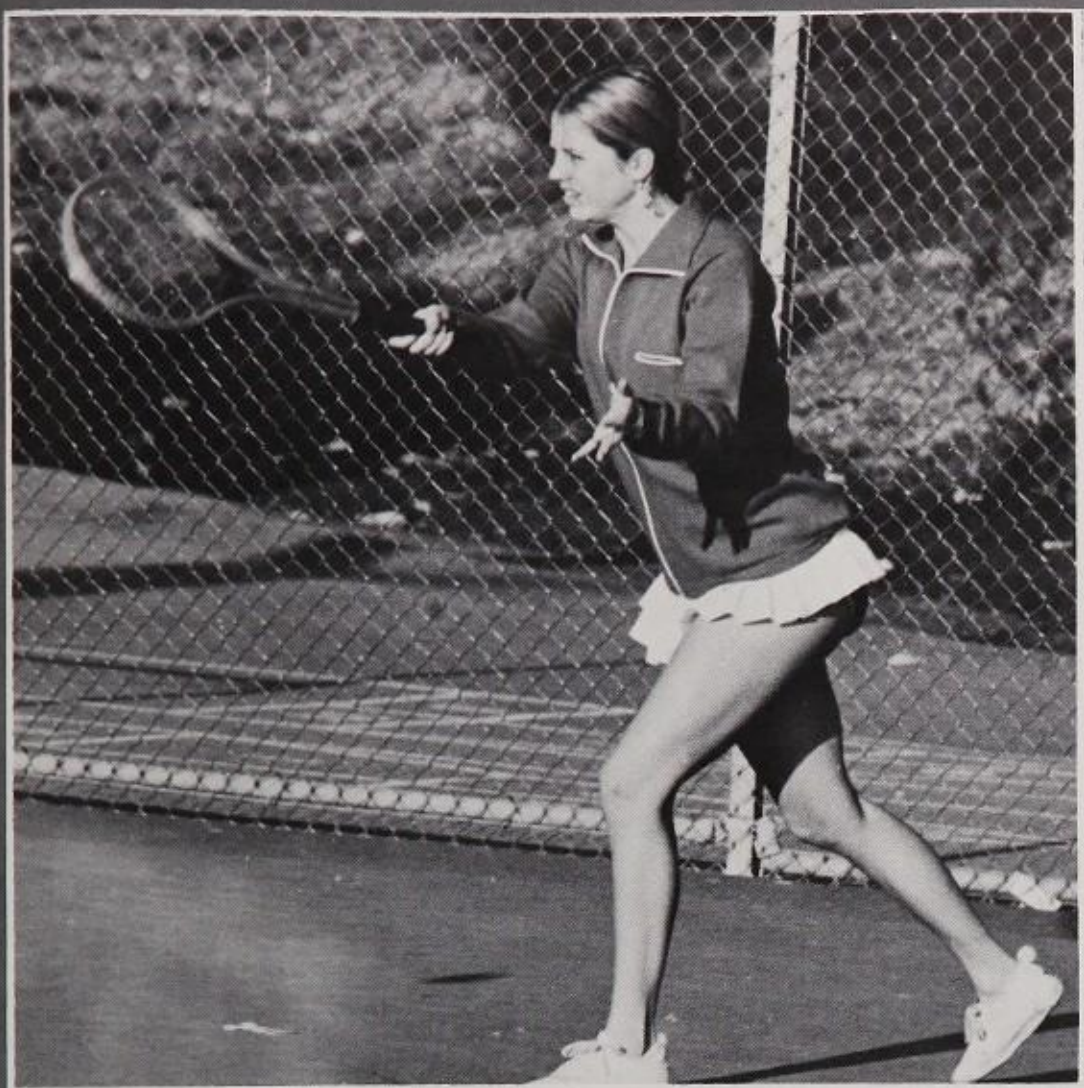

Dr. Foster began his teaching career in 1948. After 22 years of teaching and administrating all-level schools, he was appointed associate superintendent of Philadelphia schools. Dr. Foster, his wife Albertine and daughter Marsha moved to Oakland when he was selected school superintendent in 1970.

Ambushed by Symbionese Liberation Army members, Dr. Marcus Foster was shot and killed the night of November 6.

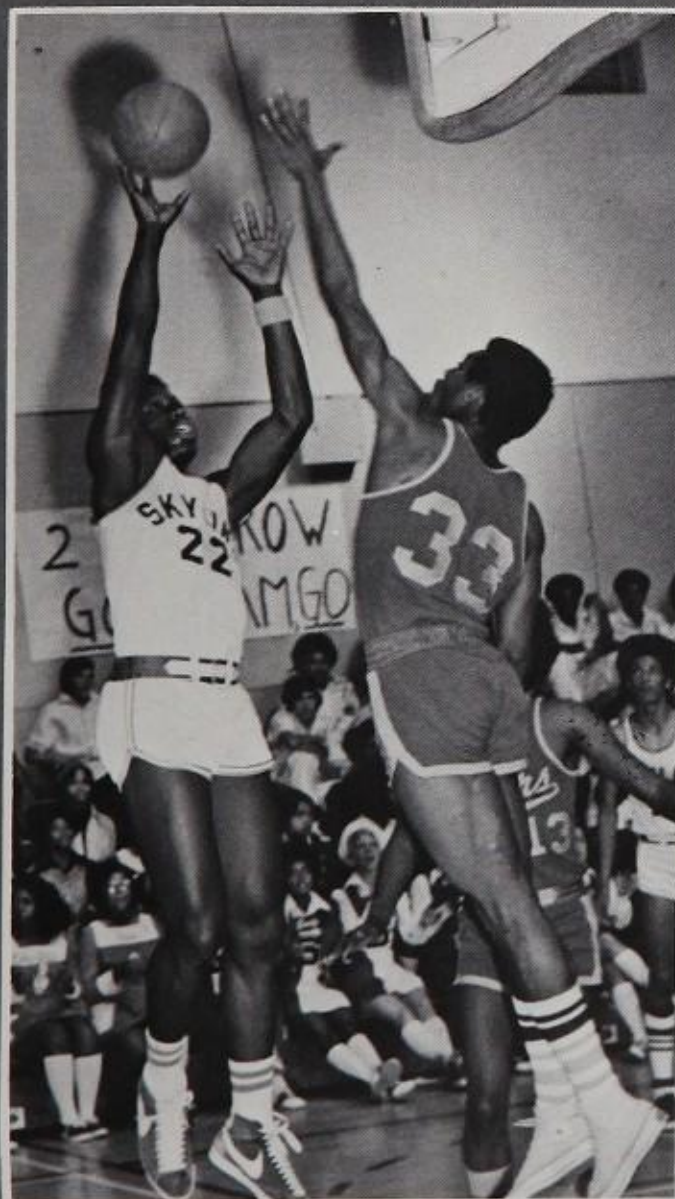

"... he engaged parents, children, school staff, and the community to prove, again and again, that confrontation and conflict provided communities for growth. Crises, he believed, are only opportunities gone wrong ..."

Titans run away with league crown

On a rain soaked fog covered field Skyline routed its way to a 26-0 victory over Oakland High, finishing undefeated in league play for the first time.

Beating crosstown rival Piedmont 21-14, the Titans completed the best ever pre-season with a three out of four winning record.

Castlemont's Knights were unseated by the rampaging squad, as Theotis Brown made two of the three touchdowns leading to a 18-6 victory. Four touchdowns sparked the team to a 27-18 over the McClymonds Warriors. The following week Fremont was defeated 21-12.

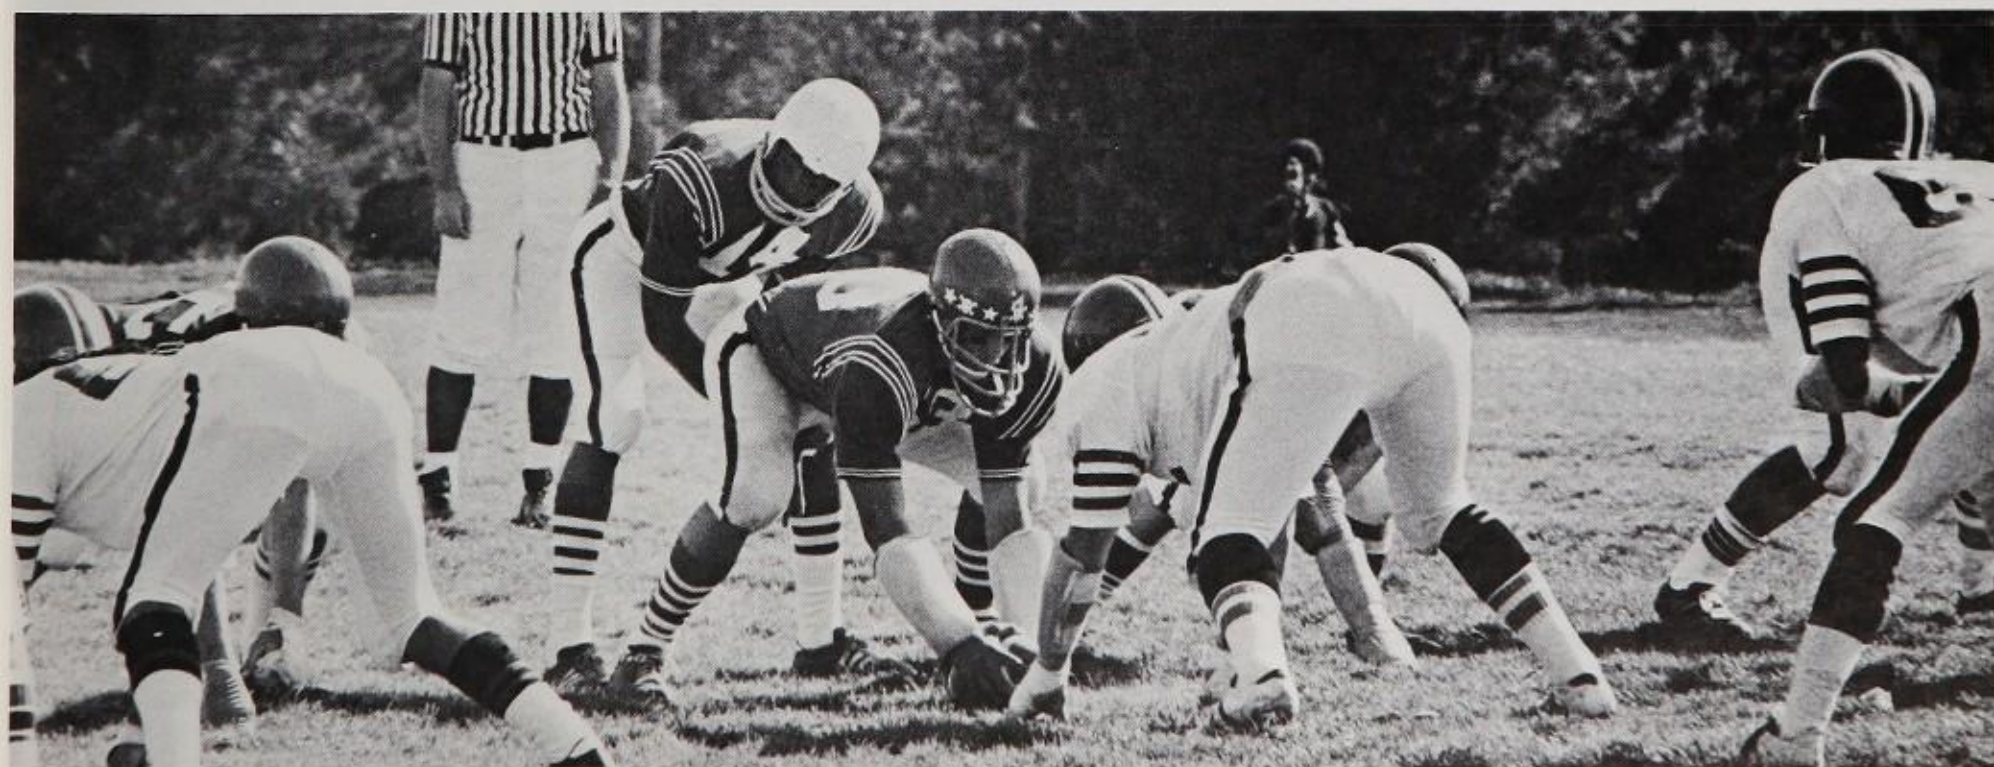

Skyline's most impressive victory came against the Oakland Tech Bulldogs, 39-0. A 73-yard run by Theotis Brown accompanied by a touchdown run and pass by quarterback Robert Goady highlighted offensive play, while the defense helped with four turnovers.

After an impressive pre-season, the junior varsity gridders powered their way to the first championship in twelve seasons.

With at least a tie for first place guaranteed, the junior varsity team beat Oakland's JV 12-8 in the last game of the season. Having several opportunities to score, the offense was only able to punch it over twice, while the defense held its opponents to one touchdown.

In the league opener, the JV's shutout Castlemont, 19-0. The toughest team of the year was McClymonds who took an 8-6 defeat. During the third week of the season, the stingy defense blanked Fremont 12-0. Against Oakland Tech, the junior varsity had its highest point total of the year 49-12.

Varsity does well in preseason

Earning a consolation place in the Del Valle Tournament and second place in the Richmond Tournament, Skyline hoopsters looked forward to the chance to prove themselves in league play. The team could not match the caliber of talent in the other Oakland Athletic League schools and finished last. In spite of the low rank, three Titans made the All-city list including Henry Randolph '74, number three scorer in the East Bay. Team manager Ben Qualls assisted Coach Fred Noel.

Sixteen athletes enter meet at Oakland arena

Many experienced returning lettermen made this year's running teams very strong. Coach Fritz Sparks added much through the knowledge he has gained by taking two league titles. Sixteen participants were sent to a Northern California team meet at the Oakland Coliseum Arena February 16. Finishing in first place was long jumper Dwayne Pulliam '75 and the 3,200 meter relay team of John Johnson '75, Dwayne Booth '74, Ron Whitmill '74, and Kent Mulkey '74. Second place finisher was the 1,600 meter relay team of Robert Goady '74, Dave Skram '74, Tom Watson '75, and Rodney Klugh '75. Placing third was long-jumper Rod Beard '74.

Soccer players finish best season

Pre-season play saw the soccer team members dominate their opponents with a 7-3-1 record. High points of the pre-season were a game with UC Berkeley's junior varsity and a night tournament in Moraga against Campolindo.

As regular season play started, Skyline went undefeated for the first nine games. Only a half game separated three teams before the tenth and final game. Skyline lost to Fremont which dropped them from first to third place.

Team members owed much to Coach Bill Jenny of King Junior High whose leadership gave the Titans their best ever overall record of 13-4-4.

Skiers use Wyoming as race camp

Rated as the best non-snow race team in Northern California and one of the better teams in the Interscholastic Ski Federation, the ski team planned for perfection this year. Coach Eugene Rockeman conducted team work-outs on campus as well as on the slopes. Highlighting the season was a trip to Utah and Wyoming during Christmas vacation for a time of intense practice.

Actors create Shakespeare comedy

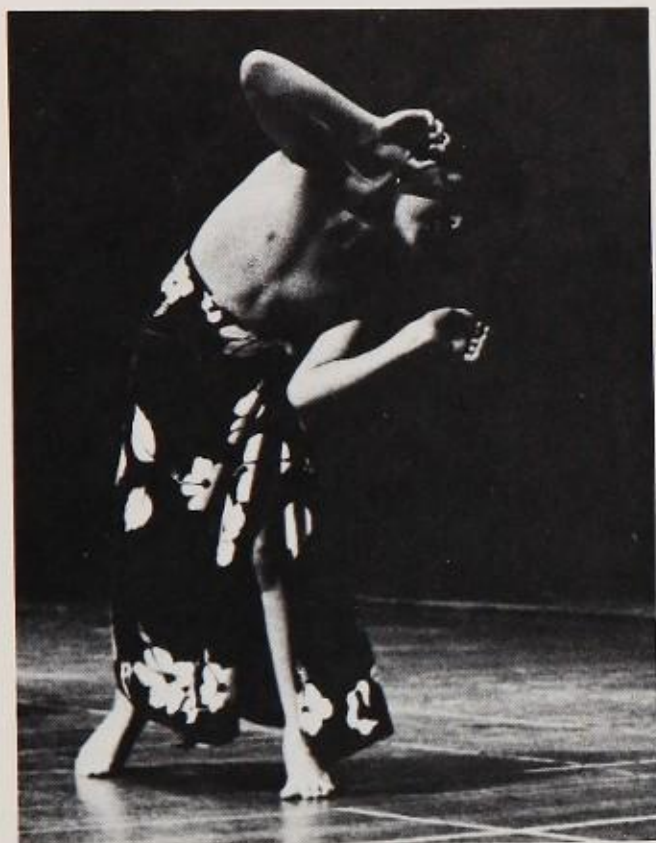

Twelfth Night the fall play, presented Friday night, November 16, and Saturday night, November 17, was the first Shakespearean production attempted by Skyline students. Rainy weather postponed Homecoming Dance until November 16, the same night as Twelfth Night, which gave people the opportunity of attending the play and unwinding afterwards at the dance. Mr. Rawley Farnsworth, director, commented that the group was a very expert and professional cast.

South Pacific is combined effort

Bringing World War II to the stage, the classic musical "South Pacific" was presented by the fine arts department. The large cast and crew as well as Mr. Rawley Farnsworth, Mrs. Joanne McKray, Mr. Richard Adams, Mr. William Rader, and Miss Elyse Dukatz combined in a two-month effort to produce an artistic as well as financial success.

The nostalgic play, set in the islands of the Pacific, concerns the lives and activities of the American marines, navy nurses, and the naval seabees as well as the Tonkinese and the re-located French planters. Scenes involving the mysterious "Bali Ha'i" and a memorable Thanksgiving Day show made "South Pacific" a spring event to remember.

Largest crowd ever attends traditional game

Jubilant crowds cheered victorious Titans on to their first league title at the Homecoming game against the Oakland High Wildcats, November 16.

The view from the stands alternated between low banks of fog and mists of rain. Undaunted by the inclement weather, halftime festivities included the presentation of the Homecoming princesses and their escorts. Highlighting the evening celebration was the crowning of Queen Erin Riley by last year's queen, Marcia Lee. The Homecoming Dance featured the sounds of the band "Saba".

Fall Music Night began a full season of many programs produced by Skyline's music department. Tchaikovsky's Nutcracker Suite, performed by the philharmonic orchestra and advanced and intermediate dance classes, added holiday spirit to the Holiday Music Program. Both band and orchestra performed in a Statewide Music Festival and individual members of the instrumental department participated in a Solo and Ensemble Festival. Under the direction of Mr. Richard Adams the theatre orchestra highlighted the year by providing accompaniment for the spring musical "South Pacific."

Band music adds zest to student life

Stage Band members, practicing one hour each morning before school, presented numerous jazz concerts throughout the year for local junior high and elementary schools. Their repertoire included excerpts from "Cabaret." Stage Band members participated in the Winter Band Concert and various assemblies. Pep Band added spirited music to the 1973 football season.

Creative endeavors express ideas

Expression Magazine—Having received more entrants than any other year, the Expression board found reviewing and evaluating an arduous task. However, through the perseverance of the board and the strength and restraint of their sponsor Mrs. Faricita Wyatt, all the deadlines were met.

Kazoo Marching Band—Though the Glenn Miller Band they are not, the Kazoo Band, started by Allan Stephens, was created to promote school spirit. The huge fifteen foot float which was paraded at the Homecoming game was the highlight of the year. Recognizing the unique concept of the Kazooer's, Bill Fiset mentioned them in his Oakland Tribune column. The club is sponsored by Counselor Henry Bianchi.

International Week mixes cultures

International Week (March 11-15) involved different cultural backgrounds in a colorful variety of events ranging from tasting international cuisine and dancing to informative lectures and slide shows.

Daily themes centered attention on the Latin, European, Asian, and African origin of the student body. The final day of the week was deemed "Melting Pot" day to encompass all cultures and culminate the festivities.

Activities including invitational assemblies, food preparation, and sales were scheduled by the Marcus A. Foster Intercultural Club.

Seniors vie for many scholarships

In stiff scholarship competition in various fields, many seniors were chosen to represent Skyline. Certificates, prize money and scholarships were achieved.

Nominated by faculty and counselors, students were awarded plaques by the Bank of America in four general fields with a chance to win $50 to $1,000 in regional competition.

Outstanding in the field of homemaking a senior girl gained the Betty Crocker award for Skyline. Two students qualified as semi-finalists and were able to continue in the Hertz Foundation Scholarship contest.

Eight students became finalists in the National Merit scholarship program. They were judged on the basis of their National Merit test scores, another examination, and teacher-counselor evaluation. Five students were chosen as Skyline's representatives for the National Council of Teachers of English Award.

To better business and economic abilities in future businessmen, the Gemco Department Store Foundation sponsored a scholarship contest. Skyline's winner was a senior boy who went on to future competition. A large number of seniors earned the title of California Scholarship Federation Sealbearers. These students were members of CSF for at least four semesters, one of which was in their senior year.

Members of the Oakland Athletic League teams received scholarships from several colleges for their performance during their three years at Skyline. Another scholarship offered to the students was the National Achievement Scholarship for outstanding black students. Three seniors were commended.

A special scholarship given by National Merit Scholarship Corporation was earned by a senior boy who received $1,400. A senior boy won a $300 Chemical Engineering award given by the Dow Chemical Company.

Above: Bank of America plaque winners are Lynn Hughes-Liberal Arts and Suzanne Wong-Fine Arts.

Deserving students capture honors

Recipients of the Daughters of the American Revolution were three senior girls competing in different fields. A senior girl was chosen as a semi-finalist for the Pacific Gas and Electric Company award after submitting her Scholastic Aptitude Test score, essays and counselor recommendations.

Exchange Club of Oakland sponsored a contest for outstanding senior boy and girl of the year. Candidates were judged on scholarship, citizenship and school and community service.

Semi-finalist for the Seymour Memorial scholarship was a senior boy. He was also a candidate for the Bay Area Engineers' award given in the field of engineering and electronics. Coordinating all scholarships and awards was Mrs. Juanita Thomas.

Below: Treasurer is Pam Malkson, Karen Freudenthal is commissioner of internal affairs, and Cynde Ahart is secretary.

Student officers promote changes

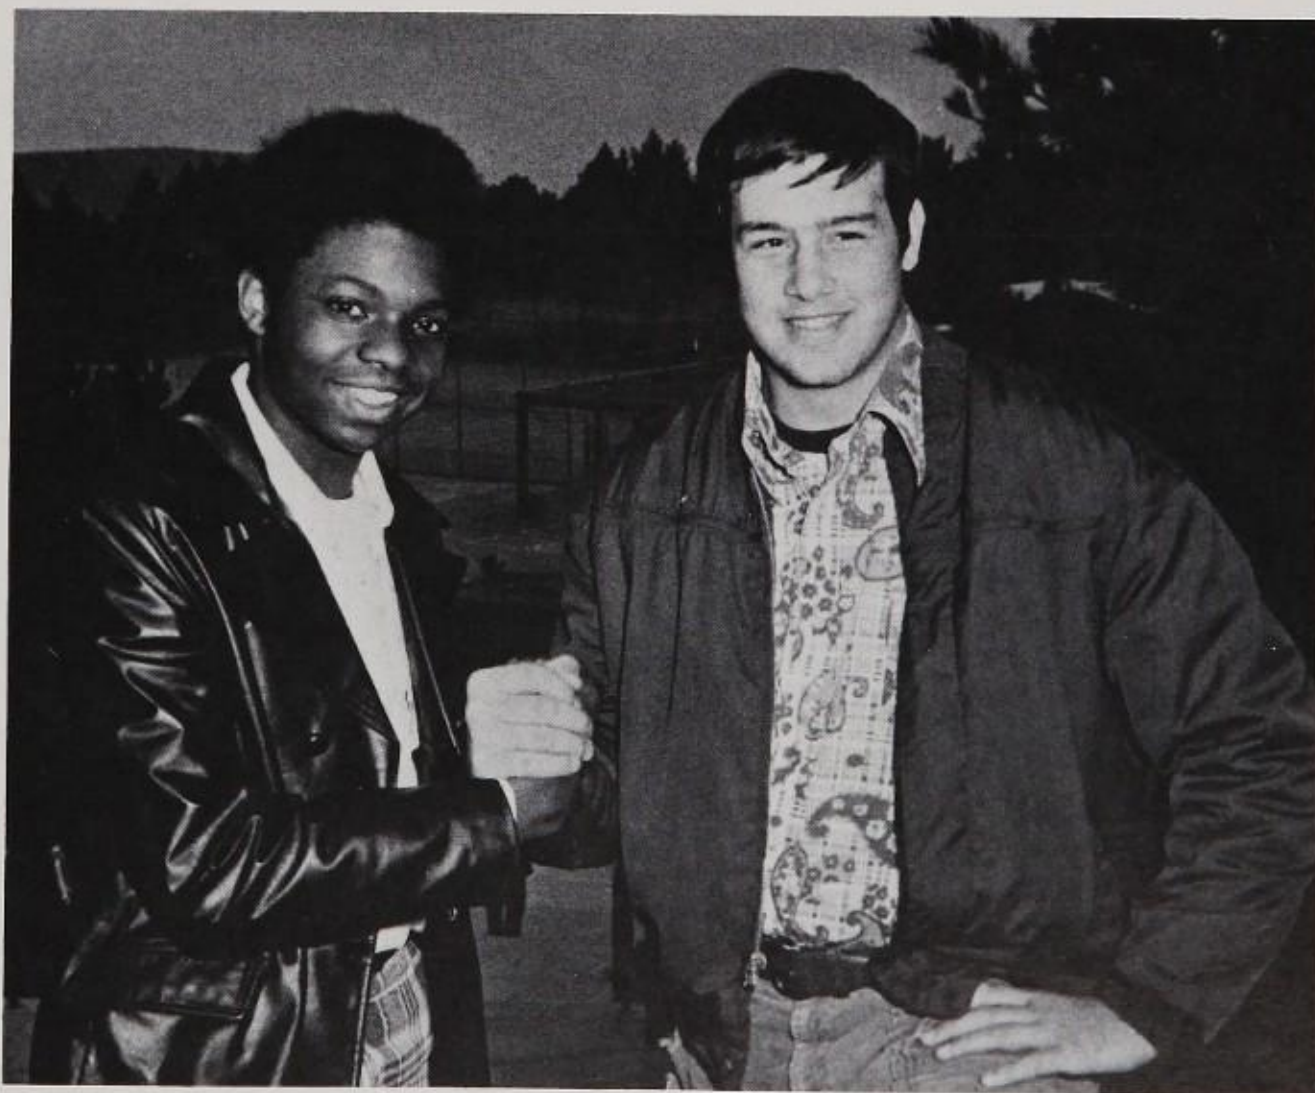

Teacher evaluation, open campus and alternative education were the issues that involved the Student Association this year. Their hope was to make these possible for the future.

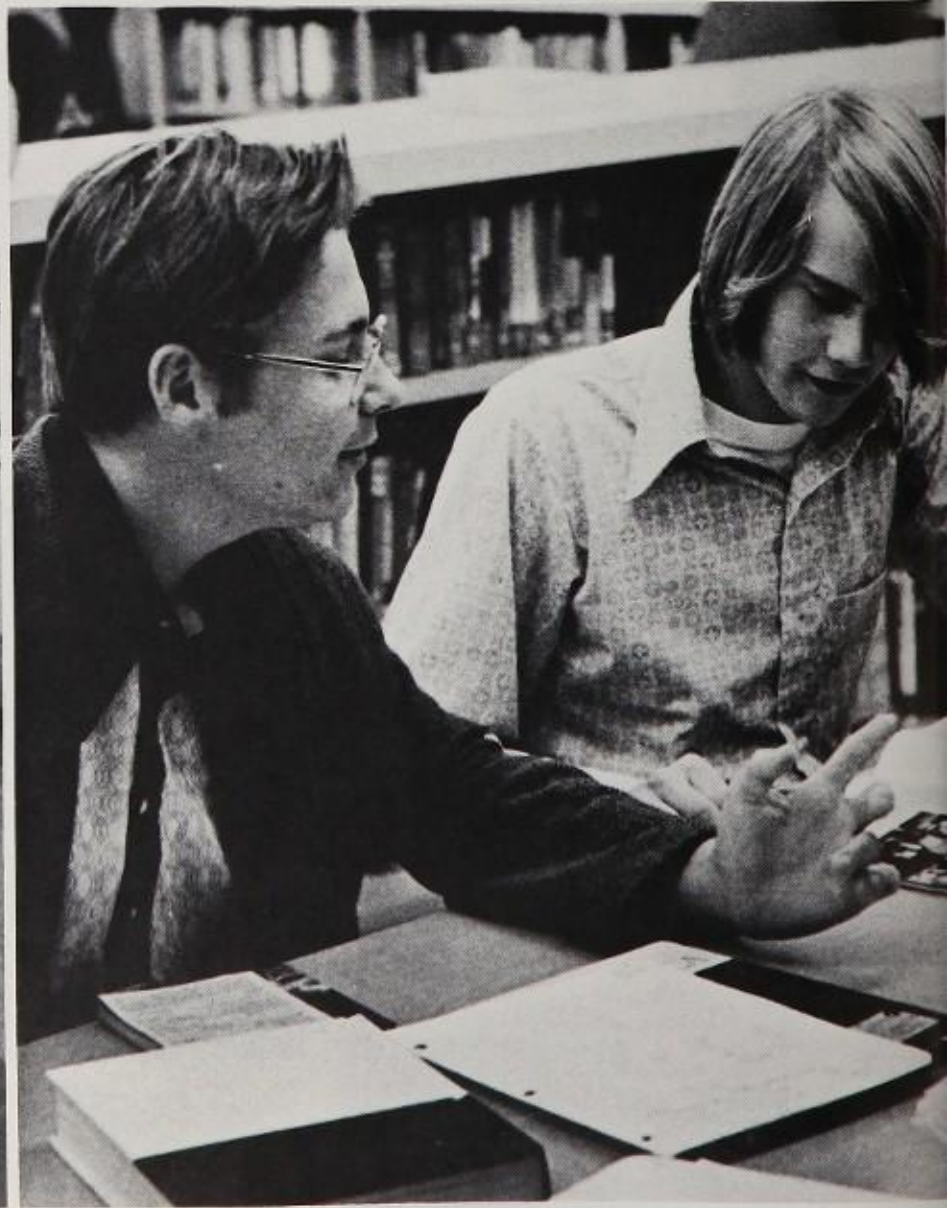

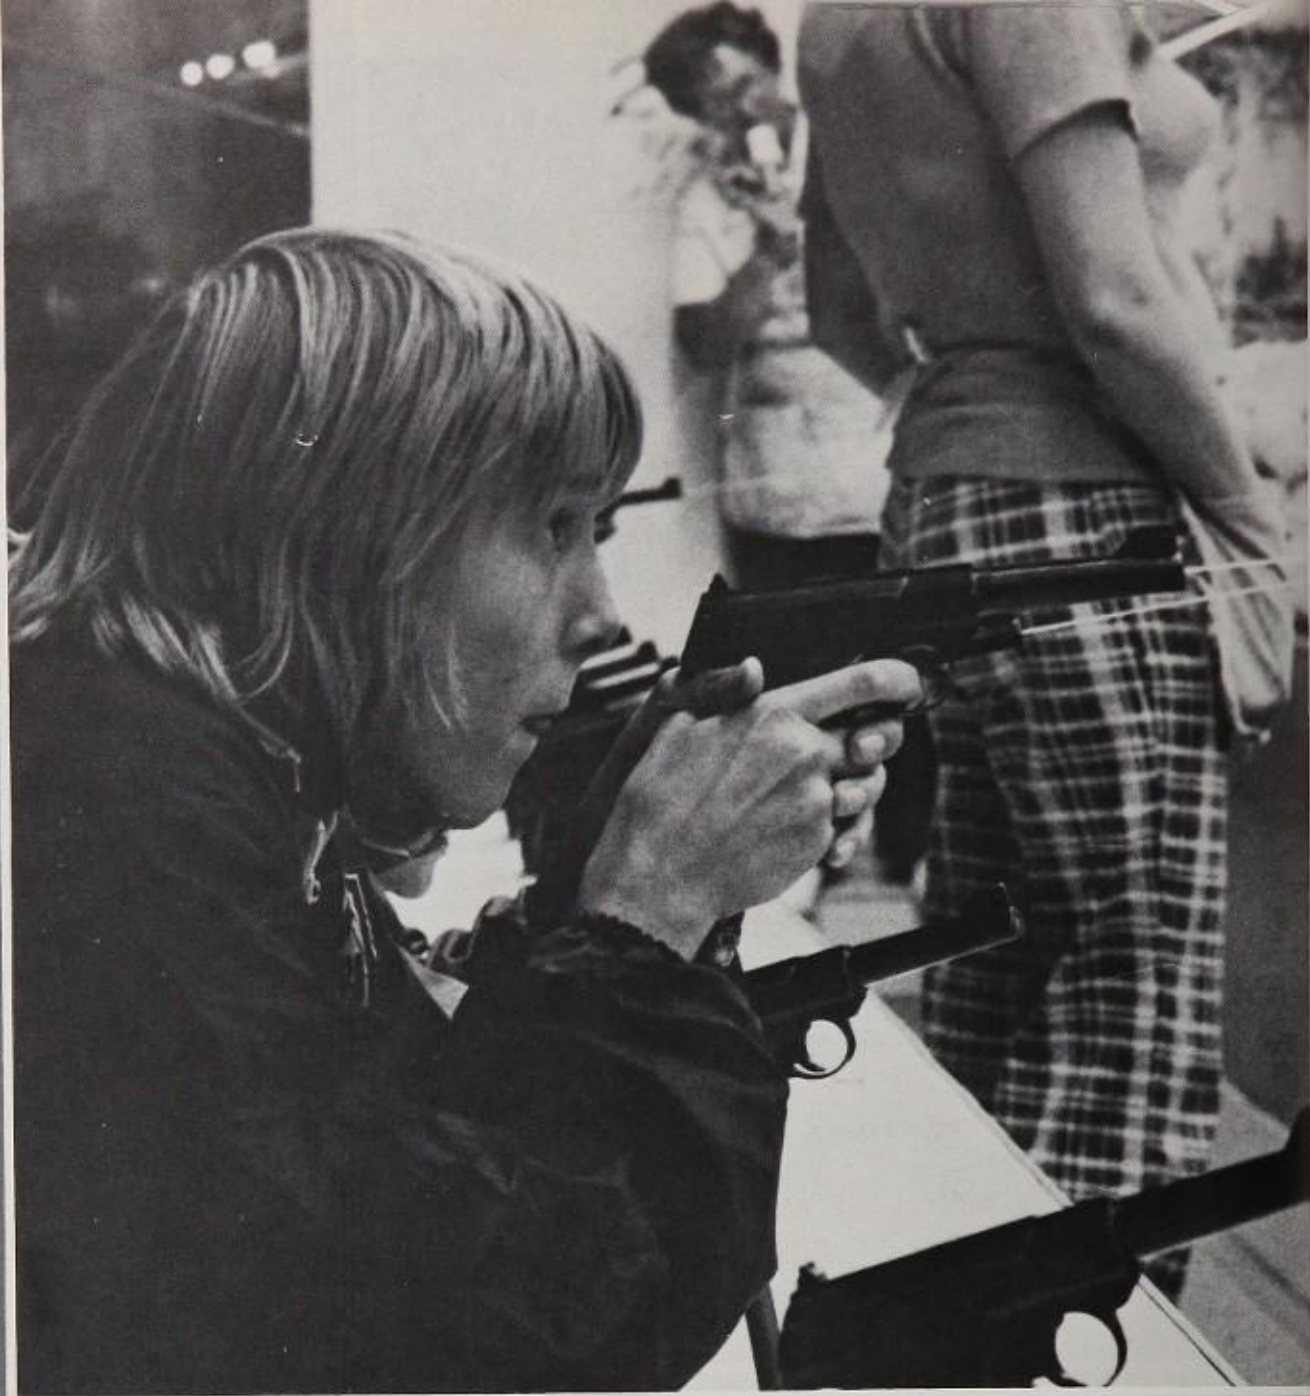

Very noticeable this year was the abundant school spirit brought out by the students, a very big accomplishment considering most attitudes in the past.

The younger set

Sophomore class stages ski swap to raise funds

Led by President Todd Auker, the sophomore class started their three year high school trek toward 1976.

Active from the beginning, the class sponsored a waterbed drawing at the Fall Carnival and held a ski swap to raise funds for events. Planned were a Santa Cruz Boardwalk trip and a talent show.

Junior class has bowling party in November

Junior classmen, inspired by their well organized officers, kept the school calendar full of events ranging from a charity drive in December, to a junior prom in the spring. Other activities planned, including an all-night bowling party, were funded by the many different fund-raising sales held through-out the year.

Center: Treasurer Marguerite Stricklin and Secretary Fahlda Thomas relax after a meeting.

Bottom: After an All-City Council meeting, officers, Mike Kan (president), LaRita Glasco (vice president), Eric Rudney (judge), and Marguerite Stricklin (treasurer) return to class.

Many brisk November morning breezes start the students' school day.

coordinate innovative senior events

Ambition, innovation, and success hallmarked the undertakings of the Class of '74. Headed by class president Anne Wilson, an exceptionally energetic executive board led the seniors in organizing a fast-paced series of projects. After kicking the year off with the annual Senior Picnic, the officers broke away from the traditional routine of activities by sponsoring Skyline's first professional carnival, which turned out to be the biggest student-run success in Titan history. Then a full and imaginative calendar maintained senior enthusiasm with such events as the donkey basketball game, and a spontaneous spirit week. The year was climaxed with a lavish Senior Ball in San Francisco and a flight of some 400 seniors to the Grad Night Party in Disneyland. The knack of the senior officers for converting the '73-'74 renaissance of spirit into action made the Class of '74's senior year an unforgettable one.

Reorganized Mill proves successful

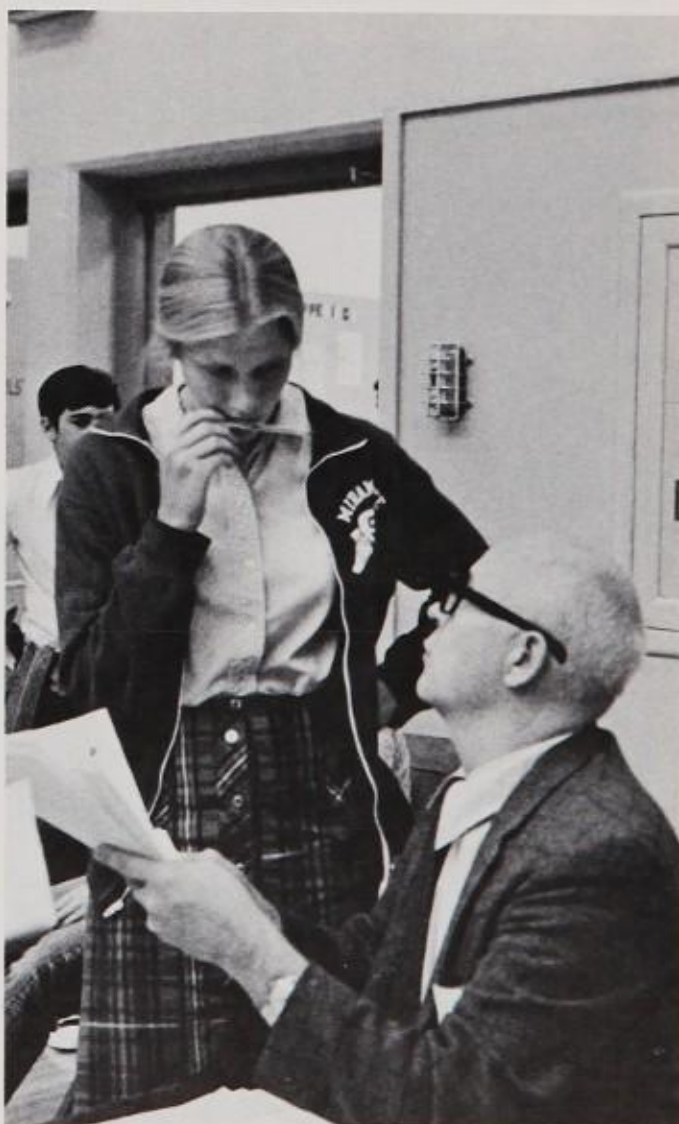

For the third consecutive year, Skyline students used the Mill to schedule their classes. Taking place on September 7, 11, and 12, this Mill was considered the most successful by head counselor and Mill coordinator Henry Bianchi, who made several major changes. The entire Mill process was located in the gym, eliminating the confusion of using the Auditorium and the Music Building.

Top priority was given to the Class of '74 which milled on September 7, while the juniors and sophomores got their chance on September 11-12.

Little Hills is site of Senior Picnic

Remaining a mystery to all students, the location of the senior picnic was not known until the arrival at the chosen spot, Little Hills Ranch near San Ramon. The picnic was held on October 2 and turned out to be a beautiful, sunny day. Seniors enjoyed many activities—football, horseshoes, swimming, volleyball, and barbequing their own lunches.

Plans for the picnic is the topic with seniors Judi Tashjian, Cathy Taggart, Heidi Hansen, Brian Brogie, and Michele Law.

Senior Carnival tops autumn events

When hardworking seniors sponsored a professional carnival, Skyline's familiar campus was transformed into a colorful fairground for a weekend. The combination of thrilling rides, Indian summer weather, and enthusiastic effort made the Carnival an unprecedented success in terms of both attendance and profit, adding $1900 to the class treasury.

Fewer early graduates in January

Mid-term graduates looked forward to January with anxiety as they were about to terminate their high school career. Even though there was great enthusiasm on the part of the graduating students, their number was sizably smaller in the current year than last year. "One explanation," said Mr. Henry Bianchi, head counselor, "may be that the drop in number is due to the rising student activity and participation."

Students pursue wide variety of activities on campus

Seniors anticipate diverse futures

Sharing the present, anticipating the future, soon-to-be graduated seniors planned their next steps with varying certainty. Many took advantage of the counseling opportunities offered on campus, including the College-Career Center, the aid of the counselors and, of course, the willing advice of friends.

CONGRATULATIONS, CLASS OF 1974! WHICH DIRECTION WILL YOU TAKE?

You are now at an important crossroad in your life—you must make an important decision. Quite understandably, you're cautious. Do you fear a one-way street or a deadend? Fears and uncertainties won't get you down if you let Bank of America be your direction to achievement!

We have job opportunities for high school graduates. Come in and see us at the employment office, 13th Floor, World Headquarters Building, Bank of America Center, San Francisco, (California and Kearny), or 11 South Van Ness, San Francisco (Market and Van Ness).

Familiar scenes around the school—the passageway between the 30 and 40 buildings, the pine tree and plaza outside the 30 building windows, and the senior steps—are meeting places at nutrition break and lunchtime.

National concerns affect student life

Cheering from the bleachers, waiting in the 15-minute long "quick lunch" lines, and in passing between class bells, 2323 faces blended smiles, knowledge, and hopes for successful futures into a collage captured by the Olympian 74. National news topics worked their way into class discussions and became student concerns in the time between filling out registration cards and filing out of graduation exercises.

Inspired by popular movies like "American Graffiti", fall quarter activities included a nostalgic cruise through Montclair. Low-riding students were joined by teachers and administrators while a local disc jockey broadcast music reminiscent of the Fifties and Sixties from a supermarket parking lot.

Billie beats Bobby

Halfway across the country in a well advertised "Battle of the Sexes", racketeering Bobby Riggs was soundly defeated by tennis star Billie Jean King.

Demolishing the New York Mets, Oakland's A's brought home their second consecutive world series title. Skyline finished on top of the Oakland Athletic League football season, as the Oakland Raiders placed first in the Western Division of the American Football League, not quite making it to the Super Bowl game.

Politic and economic puzzles cornered the American public throughout the year. "Watergate" became a household and journalistic term. Televised congressional hearings were watched by social science classes as the probing into the democratic headquarters burglary began.

Scandals reign

Under the pressure of world-spread accusations, the Nixon administration was caught in a state of deterioration. Many presidential advisers were replaced; even Spiro Agnew decided to resign from the vice-presidency to avoid charges which later barred him from his Maryland law associates.

Mr. Agnew's appointed successor was Gerald Ford.

SLA revolts

Educators around the country were shocked by the slaying of Oakland School Superintendent Dr. Marcus A. Foster in November. A letter claiming responsibility for Dr. Foster's death was delivered to local media signed by the Symbionese Liberation Army. Resurfacing in later months, the SLA made front page news again when University of California coed Patricia Hearst was abducted from her Berkeley residence by contingent members. Subsequent SLA communiques to the Hearst publishing family demanded the set up of a multi-million dollar free food program for California welfare recipients.

Crisis affects public

Snow fell in the East Bay hills, as in the winter of 1972, only heavier. Mount Diablo, covered in white, added an alpine look to the holiday season.

Energy crises, threatening since late summer, turned into reality as the cold set in. The President requested that thermostats be turned down to 68 degrees while driving speeds were lowered to a 55 mile per hour maximum.

Gas lines, blocks long in February, were relieved by even-odd gas rationing and the lifting of the Arab oil embargo.

Students streak

College campuses across the nation took up the latest student craze - streaking. The sport of running naked in public was used as a feat of dare-devilry, and as an attention getter for causes such as presidential impeachment and student rights.

Ravaged by fire a year before, the home arts department moved back into permanent classrooms in the spring.

From September until June, Skyline participated in a year of fame and infamy.

Hundreds help with production of Olympian 74

Those dedicating their energies to the publishing of the thirteenth edition of the Olympian were:

Hal Matson Photographers . . . Jim Howell and Eldon Tanner of the American Yearbook Company . . . Student photographers . . . Principal David Swanson . . . Head Counselor Henry Bianchi and the counseling department . . .

Secretarial and custodial staffs . . . Faculty members . . . Adviser Mrs. Pegé Rankin and the student body.

Together, with the aid of a few hundred blue passes and a lot of patience, these people made the Olympian 74 a book well written and a history well pictured.
